NOTICE.

THE Firm OLD ON-SHING, sellers of Gold leaf, was established in Sun-ee Street, of the City of Canton, for a great many years; their Gold leaf, bar, and ornaments are warranted to be pure, and can be returned to them if they are not pure; and this is well-known to Foreign Merchants for many years. This firm hitherto had no branch in any place. But in order to facilitate the community of Hongkong, they have recently established a branch in Bonham Street It having come under their notice, that there are evil disposed persons in Hongkong, Macao, and Fuh-shan who sell inferior Gold with the chop of OLD ON-SHING by and sometimes mixed with some genuine leaf so as to cheat people. In this way these persons try to cheat the merchants, and also injure the business of OLD ON-SHING. Determined to put a stop to this, the Shop OLD ON-SHING will pay ($10) Ten Dollars reward to any person who will give information about the forgers of their chop, or bring all the tools of the forgers, and give information as to enable OLD ON-SHING to cause these imposters to be arrested and punished.

RECENT EVENTS.

(From the "China Overland Trade Report.")

SHORTLY after the departure of the last mail, news arrived by the steamer United Service that the Benares, the overdue P. & O. steamer from Shanghai, had been wrecked on an island of the Fisherman's Group on the night of the 23rd. At noon on that day the vessel had started from Shanghai, and at about 11.15 P.M. she struck. The engines were backed full speed astern, but failed to get the ship off. She remained aground in spite of all efforts to float her, but fortunately, she made no water. The crew and passengers were in no danger until, as the tide receded, the vessel began to heel over to starboard. It was feared that she might capsize altogether, and all hands were ordered into the boats. The night was hazy, and all that could be done was to lie off the wreck, and wait for morning. During the night three of the boats were driven out to sea. When morning broke it showed the ship still above water, lying over on her side at an angle of 45 degrees. The boats which had succeeded in keeping near the shore now felt their way in among the rocks, and all who were in them safely effected a landing, and made their way to a small patch of level ground, about 30 feet above high water mark. The remaining boats could not then be seen. In this disagreeable situation the shipwrecked party spent six hours, when the steamer China, from Shanghai, came in sight. At first they imagined that she did not see them, as she stood away out to sea instead of coming in shore to their assistance, but in reality she had descried, out at sea, the three missing boats, and had gone to their assistance first. Having picked up these, she came in and anchored near the stranded vessel. All hands were hospitably received on board the China, and two pilot boats which made their appearance at this period were sent, one to Shanghai, the other to Ningpo, with the news of what had occurred. During the day the weather changed for the worse, and the China found it necessary to go round to the other side of the island for shelter. The Chinese in the neighbourhood took advantage of this to come down and loot the Benares. They were seen scattering over the hills in all directions when the wreck was visited next day by the boats of the China. During the 25th the weather again moderated. The China came round and began the recovery of cargo. It was found that the specie was nearly all safe. The baggage was mostly recovered, and a quantity of silk. During the 26th the process of salvage was continued. On the 27th the French gunboat Scorpion turned up, and then the steamer United Service. This vessel took on board the mails and some of the passengers, and brought them on to Hongkong, where they arrived on the 30th.

The Northern news which goes forward by the present mail is rather more interesting than usual, and that from Japan, somewhat startling. It seems that just before the mail left Yokohama, news had been received from Yeddo to the effect that a party of ronins belonging to the Tokugawa clan,—the late Tycoon's family,—had made their way into the palace, and murdered the high emissary from the MIKADO, who had been sent to assume the government. This is the latest news received, and it is unaccompanied by any comment, which might elucidate the situation. It is difficult to believe, however, that the assassination can have been committed with the cognisance of the late Tycoon, who had given evidence in various ways of a sincere submission to the MIKADO. The Daimios AIDZU and SENDAI were still in arms, and in the occupation of territory where they could not easily be attacked.

In Shanghai a further dispatch from Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK, on the subject of his accusation against DENT & Co., has just been published. This is written as a reply to the indignant explanation of the occurrence referred to, which was given immediately on the publication of Sir RUTHERFORD's first dispatch. It is deeply to be regretted that the Minister has not seen fit, even now that all the circumstances have been explained, and the perfect innocence of DENT & Co. in the matter established, to offer any frank apology for the unjust aspersion he cast upon the firm. In a long winded document, he endeavours now to show that even if DENT & Co. were guiltless of any intention to defraud the revenue, the passage of the tea refuse as tea dust—in accordance, it will be remembered, with a special permission to that effect from the Commissioner of Customs at Hankow,—was a fraud upon the revenue nevertheless. It is needless to point out to any one who has followed the course of this little incident that such a line of defence is the weakest Sir RUTHERFORD could have chosen, firstly because the view of the Hankow transaction, which he endeavours to establish, is a complete distortion of the case, and secondly, because even if it could be established, it would not affect the major injustice contained in the first dispatch. In that it will be remembered Sir RUTHERFORD took this alleged fraud as the text of a sermon on iniquitous practices, addressed to the whole body of British merchants in China. You pretend, he said in effect, to accuse the Chinese of bad faith! How do you dare do so when you are all stained with the disgrace of that wickedness at Hankow perpetrated by Dent & Co.? Then when the supposed wickedness of the transaction referred to melts away, even by Sir RUTHERFORD's admission, all he can find to say is that whether fraud was intended or not, the result to the revenue was the same. Concerning the elaborate superstructure of reproaches addressed to the merchants at large, and based on the theory that fraud was intended, nothing whatever is said. Such a correspondence as this is almost beneath criticism. It would be an insult to the common intelligence of the reader to suppose it necessary that the inconsequent nature of Sir RUTHERFORD's reasoning or the injustice of his attitude towards the foreign merchants, could require to be further pointed out.

Tseng-kwo-fan, the great Chinese general, has arrived on a visit to Shanghai, with what object is apparently unknown.

Amongst the excitements of the past fortnight there has to be mentioned rather a brilliant engagement between the gunboat Algerine, Captain DOMVILLE, and a fleet of pirates. The gunboat had set out on a cruise on the 27th ultimo, with the object of capturing a junk which had lately committed a piracy outside the harbour. She went into Mirs Bay without being able to gain any news of the craft she was after, but took a Mandarin on board at Nam-O, and with him to give information, coasted along the eastern shore of the bay. A pirate junk, from which the crew had escaped, was captured, and then, after spending some days in fruitless cruising, the Algerine proceeded to Macao. On the 2nd instant she went out for a cruise on the west coast, and next day, off Mongchown, she fell in with a fleet of ten junks, of from 200 to 350 tons burden, all heavily armed. The Algerine hailed them, and ordered one of them in particular to send her papers on board for inspection. This was refused, and after repeated demands the gunboat fired a shot across the junk's bows to bring her to. Thereupon, six of the native craft brought their broadsides to bear, and opened a heavy fire. At this time the Algerine was 800 or 900 yards off, and at this range returned the fire of the junks with good effect. This long range fighting continued for about an hour and a-half, during which time the supposed pirates were running through the water with a fresh breeze, and the Algerine steaming up to them. The junks signalled each other with flags, and appear to have been better organised than is usually the case with pirate fleets. About three o'clock in the day, the Algerine had the misfortune to draw one of the bolts to which the breeching of her big gun was fastened. This gun was thus put hors de combat for the time being, but by great exertions it was remounted on the slides. By this time one of the junks separated herself from the fleet, and the gunboat chased and captured her. Her captain was put on board the Algerine, and her guns thrown overboard. The pursuit of the other junks was then resumed. They were overhauled about seven in the evening, when it was found that they had been joined by four more vessels. On coming up with the fleet the Algerine demanded the papers of the nearest junk, but her captain, instead of complying, threatened to fire if the gunboat came any nearer. On this Captain DOMVILLE gave him a shower of grape at 80 or 100 yards, with terrific effect. The gunboat then steamed at close quarters along the whole line of junks, giving each one a shot in turn, and of course receiving their concentrated fire, but owing to bad practice on the part of the junks no serious damage was done, and none of the gunboat people were hurt. Eventually, however, the junks succeeded in leading the way into shoal water, where they were saved from further pursuit, and all but escaped. This one, however, was cut off and made a prize, with all her people, guns, and cargo, a good deal of which was opium.

An incomprehensible attempt was made on the 31st ultimo by some person or persons not yet discovered to blow up the office occupied by the Union Dock Company in the Hongkong Hotel. On the evening of that day, a Sunday, a violent explosion took place in the room referred to, which, on being broken open, for as an office it was naturally closed during Sunday, and the keys were not in the building, was found to be full of gunpowder smoke. A hazardous search all over the room, rendered very difficult by the density of the smoke, was then instituted by the Manager of the Hotel and some others, and no less than six or seven paper bags full of powder, with lighted joss sticks laid across them, were found about the floor. They were all picked up safely, and no further explosion took place. The affair remains at this moment as complete a mystery as at first.

Police Intelligence, 11th June.

BEFORE E. W. GOODLAKE, ESQ.

ALLEGED KIDNAPPING.

The three watchmen and the woman Wong-a-chun, charged with stealing a girl from Shek-tong-tsui, were again put in the dock.

Mr. Pollard, Q.C., instructed by Mr. Gaskell, appeared for the defendants.

Mr. Pollard said he understood that the present remand was ordered that the complainant A-yow might have an opportunity of producing the girl Hing-choy, or her sister, from Canton. He submitted that there was no case against the defendants, under the Ordinance 4 of 1865, sections 47, 48, 49, 50. He would ask His Worship to dismiss the case against the defendants and proceed with a charge against the complainant and some of the witnesses, for trumping up a false charge.

After some discussion, this course was adopted, the three watchmen being discharged, and a girl named Wong-a-cheong called, who stated that on the 18th ultimo she was walking, when the complainant A-yow enticed her away, and called her Hing-choy. At that time she was living with her sister. She met the complainant; she was asked to go to dinner at complainant's house; she went there, but afterwards became insensible, and on waking she found herself in a strange house altogether. On the tenth day, on looking out of the window (for she was not allowed to go out) she saw her sister (the female defendant in the alleged kidnapping case), and called to her. Her sister came up to her and took her away to a boat near Shek-tong-tsoi. She did not cry at all when she was being taken away by her sister. She recognised the boatwoman (produced) who was in the boat at Shek-tong-tsoi. While she was in A-yow's house propositions of an indecent nature were made to her.

Mr. Pollard submitted that A-chun should now be discharged, as well as the watchman, and that A-yow be treated with summarily for trumping up a false charge.

The boatwoman who took A-chun and A-cheong, her sister, on board when the latter was taken from A-yow, was called, and proved that A-chun, who was at Shek-tong-tsoi on the look-out for her sister, hired her boat, and afterwards came down with A-cheong to the boat. They came alone, and there was no noise.

Mr. Pollard called His Worship's attention to section 7 of Ordinance 14 of 1856, whereby the magistrate was empowered to award $15 costs to the woman A-chun, by mulcting the false witnesses in that amount.

How-a-cheong, a pork-butcher, who had given evidence proved to be false, was then fined $25, or two months' imprisonment, and he must pay $15 amends to A-chun.

Another witness, who also stated that he saw an occurrence which, in reality, never took place, was also ordered to pay $15 amends to A-chun.

A-yow, the complainant in the first case, was then called up, and His Worship, in accordance with Mr. Pollard's suggestion, sentenced her to pay $15 to A-chun as amends, or one month's imprisonment.

Mr. Pollard, however, here reminded His Worship that he was empowered to award £10 as amends in A-yow's case, as she was prosecutrix.

Mr. Goodlake then ordered A-yow to pay £10 amends to A-chun, or be imprisoned for two months, and to find two securities of $50 for her appearance any time within the next six months.

The New Hotel Arson case was again remanded until next Wednesday, at one o'clock.

Sir R. Alcock and Dent & Co.

The following despatch, by Sir Rutherford Alcock, in reply to the letter from Dent & Co., giving an explanation of certain transactions at Hankow, referred to in Sir Rutherford's despatch on the revision of the Treaties, is published in the Northern papers:—

PEKING, May 25th, 1868.

SIR,—Referring to my circular of the 17th February, I now enclose a further correspondence with the Prince of Kung, concerning certain modifications which H.I.H. deems it necessary to make, founded, upon Mr. Hart's report that merchants have erroneously concluded the reduction of duty already notified for Tea dust not exceeding 15 taels per picul in value, applied equally to Tea-leaf of such inferior quality as to be of value below that amount.

I do not myself see the necessity for fixing the maximum value in dealing with an article so well known, and especially different from every kind of inferior Tea-leaf or refuse; and there is abundant evidence that it has introduced confusion in the minds of the merchants, who seem to have "erroneously concluded," as the Prince remarks, "that the arrangement by which a duty of Tls 1.2.5 only was to be levied on Tea-dust valued at not more than 15 taels per picul, extends to a like quality of Tea-leaf"—or any inferior Tea mixture of similar value. But as this confusion of ideas must at all events be effectually provided against now, I have not thought it necessary to press my objection.

In connection with this question of Tea dust, I have received, under private cover, a printed copy of a letter addressed to the Editor of the North-China Daily News by Messrs. Dent and Co., complaining of the statement contained in the Prince of Kung's official letter, accompanying my circular of the 17th of February, as also of my reference to it and the public censure of their house which it is supposed to convey.

I do not feel called upon to notice what any firm or individual may see fit to address to the papers in regard to my public acts; but in the present instance I am unwilling to wait for direct appeal to me, and will at once answer the complaint. Should any injustice have been done Messrs. Dent and Co., I am quite ready to redress the wrong. If, on the other hand, I have no error to rectify, and have in the discharge of a public duty given expression or circulation to nothing but the truth, it is no less necessary, now that the facts on which the Prince's report and my own comments were founded are called in question, that these should be substantiated.

The statement of the Prince of Kung is to the effect that "in July, 1866, Messrs. Dent and Co. shipped 591 loads of Tea at Hankow, for which they paid only half the proper duty, representing it to be Tea-dust, a falsification which was discovered by the Customs officials on examination;"—and believing this to be true in all essential particulars, but regarding it as a matter long since terminated, I referred to it merely in general terms as "an attempt at Hankow by one of the large mercantile firms to pass a chop of Tea as dust on the payment of the half or reduced duty," by which the High Authorities had been deterred for nearly two years from sanctioning a permanent reduction.

Are these facts? and if so, upon what evidence does the plain statement of them given in the Prince of Kung's communication rest? All else is beside the question and more or less irrelevant.

It can be proved by the Custom-house records, if Messrs. Dent & Co. had not themselves in their published letter obviated all necessity for such evidence, that their agent, Mr. Evans, did in July, 1866, ship 591 loads of Tea—whether their own property or not is quite immaterial—and Messrs. Dent and Co. further admit that it was not "Dust in the literal sense of the word." In plain English, it was not Tea-dust in any sense, but something quite different; and whatever might be its proper description or its value—whether it was a mixture of Tea-stalks and spurious leaf, or "refuse Tea," or any other compound, it was liable to the full duty according to Treaty.

Such being the admitted facts so far, how was this particular article reported to the Custom-house for payment of duty? The whole question narrows itself to this.

Messrs. Dent and Co. affirmed that "it was described to the Custom House authorities at Hankow by its true denomination in Chinese." The Custom House records and correspondence show that Mr. Evans made the usual written application signed by him for shipping 591 packages of Tea-dust. The Chinese version which accompanied the English bore the characters (pu-jung-chui) that is, pu-yung tea, and the character (mo, dust) had been apparently added as a correction. It was also found in like manner on the half duty bond subsequently signed by Mr. Evans.

On this description of goods, so vouched for by Mr. Evans' signature to the declaration and the half-duty bond, the packages were passed the Custom-house at Hankow as "tea-dust" on payment of the reduced rate of half duty. On arrival at Tientsin, and examination, the Custom-house officers there discovered it was not tea-dust, but tea-leaf, and as such declared it to be liable to the full duty. It is further officially reported that the agents of Messrs. Dent & Co. at Tientsin, on the discovery that the article was tea-leaf, agreed to pay the remaining half duty at the full rate of Tls. 1.2.5, thus admitting, seemingly, that the full duty should have been Tls. 2.5.0. Be this as it may, so far as the inference is concerned, the facts, I apprehend, admit of no dispute.

The defence set up consists of a counter-statement of verbal arrangements or understanding between Mr. Evans and the then Commissioner of Customs, M. Giquel, in connection with the representative of another firm, and mixed up with a question of refuse Tea, about which some negotiations or conversation had taken place previously. What does it all amount to? This simply, that although the article was manifestly not Tea-dust, it was nevertheless known to the Custom House Commissioner to be something else, and had been the object of a special negotiation upon a muster shown by a third party, Mr. Ringer, on behalf of another firm, and finally passed by the said Commissioner in full knowledge of the truth. Consequently if any wrong was done to the Revenue, it was the act of the Custom officials, not of the merchants, with whom was neither fraudulent intention, concealment, or deception.

Now, whatever may be the margin such a statement allows for possible misconstructions and misapprehension, and it is large—without prejudice to the veracity or integrity of both parties—it is necessary to hear what M. Giquel has to say on the subject, before any safe conclusion can be arrived at; more particularly as regards the so-called special negotiation with the Commissioner and a third party not directly concerned in the shipment.

It appears by the Custom House records and correspondence on the subject, that in September, 1866, M. Giquel wrote to the then Acting Inspector General, Mr. Fitzroy, to the effect, 1st, that he had never given authority to ship anything but "Tea-dust." 2ndly, that he had obtained no sanction at any time from his superiors to levy a reduced duty on anything but Tea-dust. 3rdly, that Mr. Ringer had in the March previous been to his office complaining of being unable to ship several hundred packages of refuse tea on account of its low value, and the high duty, and he was asked for a muster. Upon this, a package was sent, described as "a strange composition of tea stalks and leaves of anything rather than tea." This muster, M. Giquel states, was ultimately sent back after a sanction had been obtained for a reduction of duty on Tea-dust, with the following note:—"The reduction of duty on Tea-dust is at last settled, you can ship such goods by paying only Tls. 1.25; I return the muster you sent me." Without pronouncing any opinion upon that particular muster, leaving it apparently to be determined by the proper examining officer on any shipment what was Tea-dust and what Tea leaf; a reticence I do not exactly appreciate or altogether approve, as I think it would have been very much better to prevent all possibility of misapprehension by stating distinctly that the article returned was not Tea-dust and could not be passed as such by the Custom-house at the reduced duty. That, however, is a matter of opinion.

The Commissioner goes on to report that while this muster was in his office, Mr. Evans came and asked if shipping such goods he would pay Tls. 1.2.5, and M. Giquel replied; "If it is Tea dust." Upon which the application already referred to was made for shipping "Tea dust." He further reports that although Mr. Ringer had heard from him that he wanted a muster of Tea dust, and in all his conversations with Mr. Ringer he never spoke of anything but Tea dust, yet what the latter sent him was not Tea dust, but refuse tea.

I think a very plain inference, and one only can fairly be drawn from these more or less conflicting statements, and it is this: That by confusedly mixing together things not identical, or having any certain or necessary connection with each other, it may have been possible for Mr. Evans to jump at a conclusion and erroneously take it for granted he might class together all kinds of refuse or inferior Tea as so much Tea dust, and count either upon such laxity of examination, or of interpretation on the part of the Custom House people as would enable him to pass shipments of this nature, on payment of the newly reduced duty specifically limited to Tea dust.

Having allowed this much, on the most liberal interpretation I can give both to the facts and the statements, it now remains to be determined whether Messrs. Dent and Co. have any foundation for their complaint that a false charge has brought against them, and that they have just cause of remonstrance on account of my reference to the transaction as officially reported by the Prince of Kung?

In the report it has been stated that Messrs. Dent and Co., "shipped 591 loads of tea at Hankow, for which they paid only half the proper duty, representing it to be tea dust, a falsification which was discovered by the Custom Officials on examination."

Can there be any doubt that they did so, by their agent Mr. Evans? I am sorry to have to return to the subject, but being constrained to do so, I must express my conviction that the Prince of Kung's statement of the transaction is literally and strictly true in every particular, and this conviction is based upon written evidence and proof which, apart from Messrs. Dent and Co.'s admissions, admit of no question. Mr. Evans' signature is there to avouch the main fact, and in the letter of Messrs. Dent and Co. given to the press, they admit that to this day the amount of duty short paid under a false declaration of the description of article taxed—has never been refunded. Whether it went to their own credit or that of a constituent is quite immaterial to the issue. The Revenue was defrauded to that amount.

As to my comments in the circular to which exception is taken, they are prefaced by a reservation, in so far as the firm was concerned, that the whole transaction "may possibly have been the unauthorized act of some agent or 'subordinate.'" It is for Messrs. Dent and Co. to elect whether they will accept this construction, which leaves the character of the firm unassailed, and throws the responsibility upon the agent of having made an unauthorized use of their name, or endorse his acts as having their sanction.

I have already in my reply to the Prince of Kung, sent herewith, remarked to His Highness that there may have been both misapprehension and misconstruction rather than any design on the part of the Agent to defraud the Revenue. I am very glad to think and to say so, in the most public way, after a careful scrutiny of all the evidence in the case. But that does not alter my opinion that a fraud was committed on the Revenue—that the Prince was perfectly entitled so to characterize the loss suffered and state that it had been effected by a falsification of the article shipped. Neither does it in any way affect the conclusion I came to at the time, that to describe as Tea-dust what is Tea-leaf or anything else, and sign a declaration to that effect, is a mode of transacting business utterly indefensible, and that it did in this particular instance inflict the injury attributed to it, of having deferred the reduction on Tea-dust only now effected; and is at all times calculated to do injury to the general interests of the trading community.

To say that it was justifiable or excusable, because it was done with some kind of understanding or collusion with the Custom-house officers, who have no authority to levy any but the legal duties, does not in my opinion tend to make the matter better. It is in that case not the less a fraud on the Chinese Revenue, and the High authorities are justified in so considering it. The intention may or may not have been that, but Custom-house Officials have to deal with overt acts and with facts; and are not allowed to shape their performance of duty by the very doubtful standard of intentions or motives, which would put them on very dangerous ground, and might not always be to the advantage of others.

Therefore I have not entered into the wholly secondary question, as to whether the proper Custom House Official did actually examine the packages, or take or receive a sample from one of them, and upon such examination declare the article to be Tea dust. 1st, Because it clearly was not Tea dust, but something else. 2nd, Because on this point there is very contradictory evidence, and on neither side is it conclusive, and lastly, because if he did so examine and pronounce it to be Tea dust, he was either incompetent or betrayed his trust, and in either supposition the shipper does not stand acquitted to the Chinese Government of having signed a false declaration and effected a fraud on the Revenue.

Neither do I think it material to the issue that Mr. Evans is reported to dispute the evidence of the Chinese Character (mo, dust) inserted in the Chinese version of the application. Because, assuming it to have been added without his authority or knowledge, and the addition to have been made by some one in the Custom House, an assumption distinctly negatived by the Commissioner, there is no question about the English version containing the words "Tea dust."

But it is unnecessary to go further into minute details of this transaction; and if anything were wanting to show that I did not act without good and sufficient reason in the general interest, it is now furnished by a renewal of the same mistake, and attempts to pass inferior Teas of low value as Tea-dust under the reduced duty. This is once more leading the High Authorities to doubt the wisdom of the step taken in reducing the duty on the latter article. I do not question that some distinction or classification might be made with advantage; allowing the spurious or refuse article of low value, for which it seems there is some demand among the Chinese, to be exported at a reduced duty. But I wish the merchants in their own interest could be persuaded in this and all similar cases, to take what is offered them in the plain and obvious sense of the regulation, and not try to pass under a rule, clearly limited to one specific article, a different kind of merchandise, certainly not intended to be included, and so jeopardize the advantage already gained, beside raising new difficulties in the way of any further relaxation of existing tariff rates.

You will give publicity to the enclosed correspondence, as also to this despatch, for general information.

Your obedient servant,
RUTHERFORD ALCOCK.

[Translation.]

The PRINCE OF KUNG makes the following communication:—

On the 3rd of 4th moon (25th April), the Yamen received a statement from Mr. Hart to the effect that merchants have erroneously concluded that the arrangement by which a duty of Tls. 1.2.5 only was to be levied on Tea dust valued at not more than 15 taels per picul extends to a like quality of Tea leaf. Fearing a loss of Customs' Revenue, Mr. Hart suggests as a modification that Tea dust of the value of not more than ten taels a picul carried coastwise shall pay a duty of taels 1.2.5, but that if exported or of higher value than ten taels a picul it shall pay a duty of taels 2.5.0.

At the close of last year the Yamen, in consideration of the great difference of the commercial values of Tea leaf and Tea dust, notified to Your Excellency a reduction of duty on the latter article.

To prevent the complication consequent upon this desire of the merchants to pass Tea leaf of a value not exceeding 15 taels per picul at the duty of taels 1.2.5 per picul; the regulations must be made more specific, and in the interests of the Revenue a distinction must be made in the case of exported Tea dust.

Mr. Hart has been instructed, therefore, that in future, as he suggests, the duty on Tea dust worth not more than ten taels a picul and carried coastwise will be Taels 1.2.5 a picul; when, though not worth more than ten taels a picul, it is exported, and when being worth more than ten taels a picul, it is carried coastwise, a duty of Tls. 2.5.0 per picul will be levied. This arrangement will alike benefit the Revenue and the merchant.

I beg that Your Excellency will direct the merchants to comply therewith.

A necessary communication addressed to Sir R. Alcock.

4th (intercalary) moon, 1st day.

PEKING, May 23rd, 1868.

SIR,—On the subject of Tea-dust, and the modifications which, on Mr. Hart's representation of the danger of misapprehension, your Imperial Highness deems it necessary to adopt in giving effect to the reduction of duty already announced, I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your official communication, dated the 22nd instant, and to submit the following observations in reply.

It is proposed, I perceive, to fix the maximum of value at 10 taels per picul instead of 15 taels, and to limit the reduction of duty to such Tea-dust only as shall be carried coastwise, to the exclusion, therefore, of any that may be shipped to a foreign port.

As shipments of Tea-dust for foreign ports are not usual, the changes in the rule will not curtail any of the real privileges which in the first instance it was intended to secure to merchants, I have no objection to offer. And in reference to the altered rate of valuation to 10 taels, Tea-dust being an article never averaging so high, it seems indifferent whether 10 taels or 15 taels be the figure adopted. But seeing that "Tea-dust," and even the most inferior kinds of Tea-leaf, or leaf and stalk mixed, are essentially different articles, and those engaged in the Tea trade can never mistake the one for the other, though they may be equally low in price, there would seem to be no necessity for fixing a limit for the valuation of the former. As this no doubt has tended hitherto to lead to the misapprehension to which Your Imperial Highness refers on the part of the merchants, that very inferior or refuse teas within the value fixed might indifferently be shipped on the same terms as Tea-dust, I cannot help thinking it would have been better to announce simply a reduction of duty on the specific article "Tea-dust" irrespective of any valuation, as less liable to misconstruction. If any merchant should present bales of or any combination of leaf and stalk which was not "Tea-dust," and made a false declaration to that effect, it would be in the power of the Custom House officers on examination and discovery of the fraud to stop the shipment, and proceed against the shipper according to Treaty, such goods being liable to confiscation.

I make this observation on the valuation clause, simply because the less room there is for any possible misconstruction or misapprehension on the part of the merchant as to the meaning of a rule, the better it is for him and the Revenue likewise. There seems to have been both misconstruction and misunderstanding in the case of Messrs. Dent & Co., to which Your Imperial Highness referred in your communication of the 28th December, 1867, rather than any design on the part of their Agent to defraud the Revenue, though the result was practically the same, and entailed the loss upon the Revenue.

I avail, &c.,
R. ALCOCK.

Preparations at Turin.

(From the "Times" Correspondent.)

TURIN, April 19th.

It is pleasant to see this ancient and dejected capital resuming the holyday garb she so frequently and willingly wore in her bygone days of prosperity. Turin has always been a self-dependent city; the consciousness of her worth upheld her even in her darkest hours, and now, under the double stimulus of pride and old affection, she prepares a hospitable and splendid welcome to the numerous guests who gather to celebrate the nuptials of her Sovereign's heir. And she does so the more willingly because the bride is one of her own children, the development of whose graces and virtues she has watched from the cradle upwards. The amiable and sterling qualities of the Princess Margaret powerfully contribute to the goodwill manifested upon this occasion. Cast down, without fault of her own, from the proud position she had valiantly won and honourably maintained as capital of the new kingdom of Italy, Turin has not yet had time to recover from the shock or forget the humiliation. Oblivion is the harder when she notes the fruitlessness of the sacrifice. It was made to promote unity, to propitiate those provinces (especially the Southern ones) which cried out against Piedmontese preponderance, and to get rid of the French from Italian soil. Those were the objects of which the attainment was announced as certain to proceed from the Convention of September, 1864, and, behold, in April, 1868, the French are at Rome, and Neapolitans and Piedmontese combine in the Chamber to oppose the policy of the party which made the convention. The sole satisfaction the old capital has since enjoyed has been to hear many deplore the change who at the time applauded it, and to see how little Florence has done towards effacing the memory of Turin. In spite of past and recent discontent, of heavy taxation, depreciation of property, and workmen's strikes, the famous old Piedmontese city thinks that now, if ever, is the moment to cast aside cares and heartburnings, and to pluck up spirits and make a supreme effort to celebrate splendidly a great event in the family of her King; and so the deposed capital comes out, in all her former bravery, resolved it shall not be said that the marriage table of her princess was coldly furnished forth by the baked meats of her own obsequies. The municipality has shown itself no niggard in providing the ways and means of a great celebration. The expenses of the festival have been estimated at 700,000f., but I hear it said they will probably amount to a million,—no small sum for this impoverished city. On all sides are evidences of outlay. On a larger and more magnificent scale than I remember ever before to have witnessed, preparations are making for those beautiful illuminations for which Turin has long been unrivalled. In Florence, on such occasions, the river and the ancient buildings of the city are employed with the happiest effect. Thousands of lights are reflected in the smooth waters of the Arno, across which the bridges form arches of flame, while the towers of the Palazzo Vecchio and the Bargello are rendered seemingly transparent by skilfully disposed lamps. Turin boasts no such buildings, and the Po skirts the city instead of flowing through its heart, but of her long lines of straight streets a vast deal is made by one of the most skilful and tasteful illuminators and decorators in Europe, the Piedmontese Ottino, to whom other cities are often glad to have recourse on such occasions. To-morrow night will doubtless prove that he has not spared his pains on this occasion. On no former one do I remember to have seen such a display of illuminatory apparatus. It is to be hoped the gas-works have been warned of the full extent of demand to be made upon their resources, or we shall risk seeing an untimely extinction of all that part of the spectacle which depends upon their supply. Apparently the long line of the Via di Po will, as on most previous occasions, consume no gas, and rely upon other means of enlightenment; but the nearly equally long Dora Grossa is spanned from one end to the other, at intervals of about 30 yards, with double arches of gas-pipe. At the end of the Via Nuova, where it debouches into the great central square, known as the Piazza di Castello, a triumphal arch of enormous height has been erected immediately opposite to the King's Palace, and overtops the loftiest of the surrounding houses. It is solely for nocturnal purposes, and by daylight appears a mere skeleton of wood and wire; but there can be no doubt of its brilliant effect when lit up, for the gasburners that cover its surface are but just wide enough apart to allow the coloured glass globes to be placed over them. Although the poorest in antiquities of all the great Italian cities, Turin is certainly a very handsome town, with much of the air and style becoming the capital of a kingdom. Florence has fine palaces, picturesque buildings, a grand cathedral, numerous striking monuments, and possesses, moreover, a charm and a fascination which all must recognize, but she has scarcely a street of dimensions superior to those which may be found in any provincial town. Here, in Turin, are three magnificent lines, all terminating in the Piazza di Castello. The Dora Grossa, 1,000 metres in length, is closed at one end by a distant view of the magnificent line of the Alps, now much more thickly snow-covered than is usual at this season, while at its other extremity stands Vela's spirited statue of a Piedmontese standard-bearer defending with drawn sword the national banner he grasps in his left hand—a gift from Milan in 1857, a time when all the hopes of Italy centred in the courage and staunchness of the little sub-Alpine kingdom, and when those hopes had recently found fresh aliment in the share taken by a Sardinian corps in the Crimean war. The background to the statue is formed by a facade of the Palazzo Madama, one of the oldest buildings now left in Turin, and parts of which date from the beginning of the 15th century. Another side of that palace faces the extremity of the Via di Po. This street, including the spacious Piazza Vittorio Emmanuele, which terminates it at the other end and is bounded by the Po, is somewhat longer than the Dora Grossa, and altogether a lighter and handsomer avenue. The third line, also about 1,100 yards long, is that of the Via Nuova, which has at one end the King's Palace, at the other the garden and fountain of the Carlo Felice-square, above which towers the handsome glass front of the railway station, while midway in the long vista stands one of Marochetti's most spirited works, the Duke Emmanuel Philibert curbing his charger and sheathing his sword after his famous victory over the French, under the Constable de Montmorency.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Thursday Evening.

The Drug market continues in a very unsatisfactory state, the native demand for the present being very limited. Notwithstanding better advices from Shanghai for every description of Drug, it appears that a feeling, almost amounting to a panic, has taken hold of some importers, and the result is the placing of considerable quantities upon the market, entirely irrespective of the high cost and plainly showing a loss of between $50 and $60 a chest. This might easily have been averted by a combination on the part of large holders to keep out of the market for a time. There has been a decline of about $25 a chest from the highest point since the arrival of the Calcutta steamers. At the opening of the market this morning new Patna was placed on credit terms to the natives at $647½, and subsequently at $645, declining to $640 on cash terms. So long as the opium brokers are encouraged by merchants to operate in their own name and on their own account by simultaneous purchases and sales at disadvantageous rates, the drug market must continue to rule most unfavourably for importers. The following may be taken as the closing prices, with more sellers than buyers on cash terms:—New Patna $640 to $642½ cash, and $645 to $646½ to arrive on 3 weeks' time, sixth sales drug Benares $630 to $632½, quite nominal. Malwa $660 to $665, good drug wanted by the natives.

The following fortnightly review of the markets is from the "Overland Trade Report" of this date:—

The market for manufactured imports has been exceedingly quiet during the past fortnight, and although the business from day to day has been of a trifling nature, values have nevertheless been well maintained at their former level, and the tone of the market, with only a single exception, Yarn, is exceedingly firm, with perhaps if anything a slight upward tendency in some instances. The spirit for speculation seems to have almost entirely disappeared, and the entire purchases of the fortnight have been without an exception for the supply of the demands for consumption. This state of affairs may to some extent be explained by the late telegrams to hand per last English mail, quoting a decline in the Manchester market, but probably this will only apply to foreign speculators, the movements of the native merchants having for a considerable time back been characterized by the same cautious policy which they now continue to exhibit. It is evident that they are buying no more than the actual requirements of the moment demand. A disinclination to lay in stocks with the market at its present level, a confident belief that prices will shortly decline, and a tight money market just at present at Canton and other large interior cities, may perhaps to some extent explain their present policy, the wisdom of which however can only be proved by the developments of the future. One noticeable feature of the present fortnight's transactions is the absence of all demand for Yarn, not a single transaction being reported since the departure of last mail. The natives say this is entirely due to the scarcity of money at Canton, where all the Yarn dealers reside, the present month being one of the customary periodical settling times so frequent with the Chinese. Grey Shirtings have been in some request, and sales are in advance of those of the previous fortnight, $3.05 is the limit for 8½ lbs., although one or two small parcels of fine quality and favorite chop have realized $3.07½. T-Cloths have also been in fair demand, and dealers have shown more willingness to come up to the prices demanded than for Shirtings. The activity noticed in the last report for Woollens seems to have quite died out with the slight advance that took place in prices, and only a few trifling sales have to be reported. Just at the moment it is extremely difficult to hazard any speculation with regard to the future of this market, but it may be safely said that news of a further decline in the Manchester market would no doubt tend to weaken prices here very materially.

The arrivals of the past fortnight have been the Peter Denny and Dunmail, both from London, with general cargoes, and the steamer Diomed from Liverpool, but the latter vessel only brings a small quantity of goods for this place. The Madras Queen, Scawfel and Fusi Yama will be due here the coming fortnight.

Grey Shirtings.—A fair quantity of these goods have been taken during the past fortnight, a large portion of which were of 7 lbs., for which the demand was perhaps more active than for the other makes. As high as $2.55 was in one instance paid for a fine parcel, while a large quantity were placed at $2.50. A small lot of inferior found buyers at $2.45, which comprises the whole business in this weight. For 8½ lbs. the Chinese have been offering $3.05, beyond which they showed no inclination to go, and the majority of the goods placed have been at this figure, although a few of a favorite chop and fine quality fetched $3.09 and $3.07½. There has been some demand for the heavier weights, and being in only small supply remunerative prices have been realized. Transactions for the fortnight include 16,400 pieces, say 6,900 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.60, 8,000 pieces 8½ lbs. at $3.05 to 3.10, 500 pieces 9 lbs. at $4.00, and 1,000 pieces 10 lbs. at $4.50 to $4.70.

White Shirtings.—The business of the fortnight in these goods has been entirely confined to the medium qualities, say 56 to 66 reed, but only a small quantity have found buyers. Transactions foot up 4,450 pieces in all, at $2.60 to 3.20.

T-Cloths.—These goods continue in favor especially the finer qualities, which have been much sought after, and in most cases commanded full and remunerative prices. For 6 lbs. $2.05 has been readily obtained, and for 7 lbs. "chop dollar" $2.70 has been paid, and $2.69 for Mexicans best, at these figures the market is very firm, and goods on the spot would no doubt be taken at an advance; a number of the above sales have been made for arrival. The business of the fortnight amounts to 21,700 pieces, say 4,200 pieces 6 lbs. at $1.95 to 2.05, 16,150 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.70, and 1,350 pieces 8 lbs. at $2.80 to 3.10.

Drills.—These goods are in demand. A small parcel of 1,275 pieces American have been placed at $5.40, an advance of 10 cents on the last quoted price, and there are further buyers in the market at this price.

Fancy Cottons.—There is actually nothing to report with respect to these goods during the past fortnight. There has been no inquiry whatever for any description.

Woollens.—The activity which prevailed for these goods at close of last mail seems to have entirely disappeared, the advance that took place in rates having no doubt been the means of putting a stop to all business. There have been a few dribbling sales, but the market for all kinds of woollens is quite devoid of interest. Transactions reported embrace 500 pieces Scarlet Long Ells at $9.15, 1,000 pieces Crape Lastings at $12.75, 600 pieces assorted at $16.00 and 170 pieces Camlets at $18.50.

Cotton Yarn.—An entire absence of business in this article, not a sale being reported during the fortnight,—has rendered the market weak, and this fact combined with the decline at Manchester is far from giving holders that firm tone which at present characterizes the rest of the market. The last sales were made at $135 for 16 to 24, but it is very doubtful whether anything like this price could now be obtained. The natives, themselves explain the present depression by the tight condition of the Canton money market, consequent upon one of their quarterly settling periods, but if this be the only cause, it will soon remedy itself, at present any quotations must be entirely nominal.

Metals are dull, with little business. The sales reported include 430 piculs Nail Rod Iron at $3.00, 420 piculs Hoop at $3.15, 50 boxes Tin Plates at $7.15, 280 piculs Lead L. B. at $9.20, and 180 piculs Tin at $14.20.

Exchange.—Rates for last mail closed at 4s. 5¼d. for Bank Bills, and 4s. 5½d. for Credits. Immediately on the departure of the mail bills were offered by the Banks at 4s. 5½d., but without buyers. Further advices from Foochow came to hand on the 3rd instant, and a large business was done in private bills at 4s. 6d. to 4s. 6½d. On the 6th, a considerable amount of Bank paper was placed at 4s. 6d. (for remittance to India), and the rate for credits accordingly advanced to 4s. 6½. A still further advance took place on the 9th, when Bank bills were placed at 4s. 6½d. Rates are now firm at quotations, and the arrival of the Foochow steamer late this afternoon has placed more bills upon the market and still higher rates are therefore probable.

Tenders for H. M. Treasury bills have been again invited during the last fortnight but little or no business appears to have resulted therefrom. The most remarkable feature in the course of exchange during the present period under review has been the sudden advance in rupee paper, from Rs. 222 to 227. The estimated amount of business by the present opportunity amounts to about £750,000 say £270,000 Bank Bills, and £480,000 private paper and eighteen lakhs rupees.

Bullion.—The market is quite bare of Bar Silver and in facts all kinds of bullion and there is but little enquiry owing to the considerable advance in rates of Exchange on India. The values quoted below are therefore more or less nominal.

The following may be taken as the closing prices, with more sellers than buyers on cash terms:—New Patna $640 to $642½ cash, and $645 to $648¼ to arrive on 3 weeks' time, sixth sales drug Benares $630 to $632½, quite nominal. Malwa $660 to $665, good drug wanted by the natives.

The following fortnightly review of the markets is from the "Overland Trade Report" of this date:—

The market for manufactured imports has been exceedingly quiet during the past fortnight, and although the business from day to day has been of a trifling nature, values have nevertheless been well maintained at their former level, and the tone of the market, with only a single exception, Yarn, is exceedingly firm, with perhaps if anything a slight upward tendency in some instances. The spirit for speculation seems to have almost entirely disappeared, and the entire purchases of the fortnight have been without an exception for the supply of the demands for consumption. This state of affairs may to some extent be explained by the late telegrams to hand per last English mail, quoting a decline in the Manchester market, but probably this will only apply to foreign speculators, the movements of the native merchants having for a considerable time back been characterized by the same cautious policy which they now continue to exhibit. It is evident that they are buying no more than the actual requirements of the moment demand. A disinclination to lay in stocks with the market at its present level, a confident belief that prices will shortly decline, and a tight money market just at present at Canton and other large interior cities, may perhaps to some extent explain their present policy, the wisdom of which however can only be proved by the developments of the future. One noticeable feature of the present fortnight's transactions is the absence of all demand for Yarn, not a single transaction being reported since the departure of last mail. The natives say this is entirely due to the scarcity of money at Canton, where all the Yarn dealers reside, the present month being one of the customary periodical settling times so frequent with the Chinese. Gray Shirtings have been in some request, and sales are in advance of those of the previous fortnight. $3.05 is the limit for 8¼ lbs., although one or two small parcels of fine quality and favorite chop have realized $3.07½. T-Cloths have also been in fair demand, and dealers have shown more willingness to come up to the prices demanded than for Shirtings. The activity noticed in the last report for Woollens seems to have quite died out with the slight advance that took place in prices, and only a few trifling sales have to be reported. Just at the moment it is extremely difficult to hazard any speculation with regard to the future of this market, but it may be safely said that news of a further decline in the Manchester market would no doubt tend to weaken prices here very materially.

The arrivals of the past fortnight have been the Peter Denny and Dunmail, both from London, with general cargoes, and the steamer Diomed from Liverpool, but the latter vessel only brings a small quantity of goods for this place. The Maiden Queen, Scawfel and Fusi Yama will be due here the coming fortnight.

Grey Shirtings.—A fair quantity of these goods have been taken during the past fortnight, a large portion of which were of 7 lbs., for which the demand was perhaps more active than for the other makes. As high as $2.55 was in one instance paid for a fine parcel, while a large quantity were placed at $2.50. A small lot of inferior found buyers at $2.45, which comprises the whole business in this weight. For 8¼ lbs the Chinese have been offering $3.05, beyond which they showed no inclination to go, and the majority of the goods placed have been at this figure, although a few of a favorite chop and fine quality fetched $3.06 and $3.07½. There has been some demand for the heavier weights, and being in only small supply remunerative prices have been realized. Transactions for the fortnight include 16,400 pieces, say 6,900 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.60, 8,000 pieces 8¼ lbs. at $3.05 to 3.10, 500 pieces 9 lbs. at $4.00, and 1,000 pieces 10 lbs. at $4.50 to $4.70.

White Shirtings.—The business of the fortnight in these goods has been entirely confined to the medium qualities, say 56 to 66 reed, but only a small quantity have found buyers. Transactions foot up 4,450 pieces in all, at $2.60 to 3.20.

T-Cloths.—These goods continue in favor especially the finer qualities, which have been much sought after, and in most cases commanded full and remunerative prices. For 6 lbs. $2.05 has been readily obtained, and for 7 lbs. "chop dollar," $2.70 has been paid, and $2.60 for Mendels best; at these figures the market is very firm, and goods on the spot would no doubt be taken at an advance; a number of the above sales have been made for arrival. The business of the fortnight amounts to 21,700 pieces, say 4,200 pieces 6 lbs at $1.95 to 2.05, 16,150 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.70, and 1,350 pieces 8 lbs at $2.80 to 3.10.

Drills.—These goods are in demand. A small parcel of 1,275 pieces American have been placed at $5.40, an advance of 10 cents on the last quoted price, and there are further buyers in the market at this price.

Fancy Cottons.—There is actually nothing to report with respect to these goods during the past fortnight. There has been no inquiry whatever for any description.

Woollens.—The activity which prevailed for these goods at close of last mail seems to have entirely disappeared, the advance that took place in rates having no doubt been the means of putting a stop to all business. There have been a few dribbling sales, but the market for all kinds of woollens is quite devoid of interest. Transactions reported embrace 500 pieces Scarlet Long Ells at $8.05, 1,000 pieces Crepe Lastings at $12.75, 600 pieces assorted at $16.00 and 170 pieces Camlets at $18.50.

Cotton Yarn.—An entire absence of business in this article, not a sale being reported during the fortnight,—has rendered the market weak, and this fact combined with the decline at Manchester is far from giving holders that firm tone which at present characterizes the rest of the market. The last sales were made at $135 for 16 to 24, but it is very doubtful whether anything like this price could now be obtained. The natives themselves explain the present depression by the tight condition of the Canton money market, consequent upon one of their quarterly settling periods, but if this be the only cause, it will soon remedy itself, at present any quotations must be entirely nominal.

Metals are dull, with little business. The sales reported include 430 piculs Nail Rod Iron at $3.03, 420 piculs Hoop at $3.15, 50 boxes Tin Plates at $7.15, 280 piculs Lead L. R. at $9.20, and 420 piculs Tin at $14.20.

Exchange.—Rates for last mail closed at 4s. 5¼d. for Bank Bills, and 4s. 5¾d. for Credits. Immediately on the departure of the mail bills were offered by the Banks at 4s. 5¼d., but without buyers. Further advices from Foochow came to hand on the 3rd instant, and a large business was done in private bills at 4s. 6d. to 4s. 6¼d. On the 6th, a considerable amount of Bank paper was placed at 4s. 6d. (for remittance to India), and the rate for credits accordingly advanced to 4s. 6½. A still further advance took place on the 9th, when Bank bills were placed at 4s. 6½d. Rates are now firm at quotations, and the arrival of the Foochow steamer late this afternoon has placed more bills upon the market and still higher rates are therefore probable.

Tenders for H. M. Treasury bills have been again invited during the last fortnight but little or no business appears to have resulted therefrom. The most remarkable feature in the course of exchange during the present period under review has been the sudden advance in rupee paper, from Rs. 222 to 227. The estimated amount of business by the present opportunity amounts to about £750,000 say £270,000 Bank Bills and £480,000 private paper and eighteen lakhs rupees.

Bullion.—The market is quite bare of Bar Silver and in facts all kinds of bullion and there is but little enquiry owing to the considerable advance in rates of Exchange on India. The values quoted below are therefore more or less nominal.

Docks.

THE UNION DOCK COMPANY OF HONGKONG AND WHAMPOA, LIMITED.

THE Company respectfully beg to call the attention of Ship Owners, Consignees, and Masters of Vessels to their establishments at WHAMPOA and HONGKONG, which offer every facility for the DOCKING and REPAIRS of Vessels of all classes.

Their Docks at Whampoa are in good working order, and are pumped out by Steam, and the Workshops comprise the different departments of Shipwright, Blacksmith, Boilermaker, and Machinery works. Materials supplied of the best kind and on the most reasonable terms. A jetty with a pair of powerful lifting shears, alongside of which masts and boilers can be taken out of Vessels.

Their Hongkong establishment (lately known as Messrs. THOS. HUNT & Co.'s Wanchai Shipyard), comprises also the different departments of Shipwright, Blacksmith, Boilermaker and Machinery works, and possesses a pair of lifting shears.

Their Granite Dock at Kowloon, most advantageously situated, solidly built, and of full dimensions to admit the docking of any Vessel coming to this harbour, will be completed in a very short time.

The Steam Tug Little Orphan is always in readiness to tow Vessels to Dock, free of charge, and to sea, or new berth, at reduced rates.

All works carried on under the superintendence of experienced European foremen.

For further particulars apply to

A. D. MITCHELL,
Manager of Works,
At the Office of the Company.

N.B.—Consignees or Masters of Vessels having cause to complain of the works done at the Docks or at Hongkong, will please address their complaints to the Office of the Company, which will receive the immediate attention of the Directors.

tf 809 Hongkong, 29th April, 1868.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned call the attention of Masters and Agents of vessels discharging at this port to the great advantage to be gained in point of convenience, despatch, and economy, by making use of their Wharves at New Harbour.

With the assistance of steam cranes, a general cargo can be landed easily in a few days—or in about one-fifth of the time usually occupied discharging in the roads.

There are large, dry, and very commodious brick godowns on the wharves, which vessels have free use of for cargo while discharging.

The trouble and disputes with, and pilfering of cargo common among boatmen, are avoided by vessels using the wharves.

Cartage of cargo to the town (which is within easy distance) is guaranteed to be not more than lighterage from the roads, and the coolie hire discharging alongside is less.

There is always a large stock of the best English and Welsh coals on the premises, which are supplied to steamers at the lowest market price, and vessels going alongside to take in or discharge coals pay no wharfage.

Vessels discharging cargo pay a wharfage of 20 cents per ton—a trifling charge when the immense advantages gained are taken into consideration.

Arrangements have been made by which all repairs to ships or steamers can be done with despatch while the vessels are lying alongside the wharves.

There is an efficient European pilot on the premises, and, when required, a steam tug is always available.

THE BORNEO COMPANY, LIMITED.

Singapore, 6th April, 1868. [6m 827

NOTICE.

THE Firm OLD ON-SHING, sellers of Gold leaf, was established in Sew-sze Street, of the City of Canton, for a great many years; their Gold leaf, bar, and ornaments are warranted to be pure, and can be returned to them if they are not pure; and this is well-known to Foreign Merchants for many years. This firm hitherto had no branch in any place. But in order to facilitate the community of Hongkong, they have recently established a branch in Bonham Strand. It having come under their notice, that there are evil disposed persons in Hongkong, Macao, and Fuh-shan who sell inferior Gold with the chop of OLD ON-SHING on it, and sometimes mixed with some genuine leaf so as to cheat people. In this way these persons try to cheat the merchants, and also injure the business of OLD ON-SHING. Determined to put a stop to this, the Shop OLD ON-SHING will pay ($10) Ten Dollars reward to any person who will give information about the forgers of their chop, or bring all the tools of the forgers, and give information so as to enable OLD ON-SHING to cause these impostors to be arrested and punished.

An "Awful Sacrifice."

(From the "Times.")

The old Téméraire going to her last home is a magnificent expression of scenery and sentiment, but all the romance is taken out of Turner's painting by a little story just told to Parliament at the instance of Mr. Seely. The wooden walls of Old England are now going to their last homes in batches, and under circumstances by no means suggestive of any sentimental or pathetic considerations. It is about the most "awful sacrifice" of property that can well be imagined, and the case seems hardly bettered even by the reflection that the loss incurred is the nearest approach to gain which the bargain admits. The old Téméraire had, at any rate, done her duty, but her successors are sent off to the shipbreakers at the price of old timber, without ever having been ranged in line of battle, or perhaps even sent to sea.

In the eight years between 1859 and 1867 upwards of 150 vessels of all rates and classes were sold out of the Navy for what they would fetch—that being a very small amount indeed. Many of these were probably of little value, but just about this time last year a bargain was negotiated which really does seem distressingly hard. Seven line-of-battle ships and six large frigates were marked for sale. The list includes some of the most historic names of the British Navy. There were the Cressy, the Collingwood, the Orion, the Colossus, the Majestic, the Brunswick, and the Sans Pareil—all powerful men-of-war; while the frigates were the Chesapeake, the Euryalus, the Impérieuse, the Arrogant, the Termagant, and the Leander. If we reckon the original cost of these thirteen vessels at a million of money, we shall be grossly understating the case, and they were no old-fashioned models, but good modern fighting ships, as fighting ships were estimated even ten or twelve years ago. However, at the beginning of last year they were condemned, and the question was how to find the best market for them and get the handsomest price. But this question soon suggested others. It had been the custom of the Admiralty to sell ships with restrictions, stipulating for the resale to Government of all metal marked with the broad arrow, and other Government stores specified in the contract. These conditions were designed as a check upon the sale of such stores improperly obtained, but they operated, as restrictions always do, to the damage of the vendors, and the Controller of the Navy proposed on this occasion to dispense with them for the sake of improving his bargain. His view of the case was not accepted by other Departments, but he carried his point by a convincing piece of evidence. He put in a tender from a well-known firm offering a bonus of £500 a vessel if sold without the usual conditions. "My Lords" recognised the force of this argument, and the ships accordingly were ordered to be sold "out and out."

Tenders were invited from five different parties, and four of these ventured on biddings. The offers were cruelly small. From £1,270 to £1,500 was the bid for a fine frigate; from £5,000 to £8,000 for a noble two-decker. There was a little competition, but not much, and ultimately British men-of-war which only a few years ago would have represented a good Channel Squadron were allowed to go for the sum of £87,543. That was all that could be obtained for the thirteen vessels under conditions unusually favourable. If the Admiralty stores had been bought back again out of the purchase money, a good proportion of this amount would have disappeared. We have said that these vessels must have cost at least a million, and we see that five of them are reckoned by an Admiralty official to have cost approximately £513,474. On the same authority the prices offered are computed to represent about 1-16th of the original value, but if we add to this calculation the charges incurred since the first construction, it is hard to say what fraction should be employed to express the depreciation of the property.

However, there was not only no help for it, but it was, upon the whole, an advantageous bargain for the public. The not unnatural remonstrance of a Department at so terrible a sacrifice was conclusively met by the Controller-General. "The value of these ships," says he, "may bear no proportion to their cost, and yet it may be sound economy to realize that value. The value of that which you do not want can only be ascertained by the price others will give for it. The retaining in one's possession what is not wanted, what is costly to retain, and what cannot be used without large additional expenditure of money on the article itself, is certainly uneconomical." There was no rebutting such an argument, every step of which could be irrefutably established. The ships were certainly not wanted, for they were utterly unfit for modern warfare. They could only be retained at a very considerable cost, and this is a part of the story which the public will do well to bear in mind. The Controller tells us that, what with wages to ship-keepers, stokers, and engineers, together with wages and materials expended in repairs, every one of these useless line-of-battle ships costs the country £1,000 a year. If we suppose that a frigate costs only half as much, we shall find that this batch of vessels entailed an annual expenditure of £10,000 upon the nation, so that if only £87,000 was gained by this bargain £10,000 a year was saved. As to what it would have cost to render these vessels available for service, we cannot even hazard a conjecture, but we may safely assume that in the majority of cases the bargain would have been a bad one.

AN UNEXPECTED APPLICATION.—It is greatly to be regretted that, at a time like the present, when we are doing our best to induce the women of India to come forth somewhat from their seclusion and play a nobler part in the business of life than has hitherto been their custom, an English periodical like the Saturday Review should think fit to publish a series of the most bitter satires upon the women of England that pen could well put to paper. It stands to reason that our native fellow subjects, who have naturally considerable repugnance to any change in the social status of their womankind, must be alarmed at the picture that the Saturday Review gives of what civilization and education have done for Englishwomen. They will not say that they have some grounds for feeling that if the movement now on foot is to bring their wives and daughters to the same pass, they would be only exchanging a life of simplicity and virtue for one of brilliancy and vice. We have before us a striking proof that this deplorable misconception has either seized upon the native mind or has been seized upon by it—and, be it noted, this is more than a metaphysical difference. A certain native gentleman of Bombay has been at the trouble and expense of having translated and printed in the vernacular that libel on Englishwomen—"the" Girl of the Period.—Times of India.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO IRELAND.—The London Review believes that the Prince and Princess of Wales can really do a vast deal of good to Ireland by promoting the sentiment of loyalty, which will continue to exist when the shouting is over. It has been often said, and with perfect truth, that there are no people more loyal at heart than the Irish. There are no people so ready to accept a symbol for much more than it is worth. They have fought for kings who have been detested here, and adhered to royal fortunes through thick and thin, when England had neglected and almost forgotten the divine rights of her monarchs. This comes of their emotional nature. The Irish have a wonderful respect for power, and, above all, for race. The fact of kings and queens coming of old families has, perhaps, as much influence in provoking their enthusiasm as anything else. The Queen has been sadly neglectful of Ireland in reference to personal visits, which we suppose we are to ascribe to her associations with Scotland and to the miseries of St. George's Channel. We do not venture to say that an excursion of this kind inaugurates, as the phrase is, a new era for Ireland. It will do nothing of the sort; nor should we expect so large a result. Anything, however, that does good to Ireland at this moment does a great deal. If it only serves to distract the country, to make it for a time forget its everlasting troubles, agitations, and squabbles, and put it in a fair temper to read the debates in the House on the resumption of parliamentary business, the Prince and Princess will not have crossed the Channel in vain. It is to be hoped at least that those visits will not be so rare. If Ireland is worth having, there is no cheaper way of attaching her to us than to encourage and foster those romantic characteristics of her people upon which this loyal regard is founded. That it has survived so much neglect is a proof of its strength and vitality. We have no doubt but the visit we now record will still encourage it once more, and help to revive it at a critical time, when it seemed to grow faint from want of something to which to attach itself.

FIRE INSURANCE.

THE Undersigned have (as already intimated in their Circular dated 14th October last,) received authority from the Secretary of the Royal Insurance Company to reduce the rate of Premium under certain circumstances, on private residences and on Furniture and effects therein contained.

In cases of Dwelling Houses removed from the town the rate of premium will be three-quarters per cent. in place of one per cent. per annum as hitherto charged, and in cases of Residences so situated being detached or semi-detached the rate will be further reduced to one-half per cent.

The Royal's annual rates for Fire Insurance on the various classes of Buildings and their contents will therefore remain as follows until further notice, viz:—

Detached and semi-detached Dwelling Houses (removed from the town) and their contents. ½ per cent.
Other Dwelling Houses (similarly situated) and their contents ¾ per cent.
Offices and Godowns and their contents. 1 per cent.
First Class China Houses and their contents. 1½ per cent.
Other Risks by Special arrangement.
